Death of Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. D. H. Brown, the lady whose leg was amputated recently died at 8:30 on Thursday evening. Mrs. Brown was the widow of the Supt. of the Vivian Mill, who also represented Ormsby county in the legislature. Her death was the result of a disease known as embolism or clotted blood in the arteries. She suffered intense pain for some days, but bore it with great fortitude. Her death was only regarded as a question of time by her physicians. She had lived many years in this county, and was highly esteemed and respected by a large circle of acquaintances. She leaves behind her an aged mother and a son, Harry Brown, engaged in the Bullion Bank. She leaves in property $11,000 to her son, and $1000 to her mother. She was in her 59th year at the time of her death. The funeral will take place from the M. E. Church in this city on Sunday at 11 A. M., and the body will be interred at Empire, beside the body of deceased's husband. Neil Correcco and Newton Brown were thrown into the cooler last evening for fighting on the street.

The Pinenut Crop.

The Indians of Nevada are without a pinenut crop this year. The pine tree is an unreliable producer of its highly aromatized nut. For periods of five and six years, it yearly fructifies to the great delight and pecuniary benefits of the aborigines. This productive season may extend through a period of drought, or it may be a time of heavy precipitation, climate changes, such as affect other trees, having apparently no bearing. Then again, under what would be termed most favorable conditions, the pine will be unproductive, and remain barren for one, two, three or as long as six years at a stretch. The cone shaped burs containing the nuts are a year in maturing, so the red man has ample notice of the prospects or condition of his crop. Now this Fall there were no burs to gather and roast. The Indians knew last Winter that there would be none, but this month the resinous, sticky, verdant cones, about the size of a marble, cover the trees, so next Fall when the nuts have ripened and the cone has grown to the size of a baseball, huge bonfires on every pine range, gyrating columns of smoke high into the air, will mark the Indian's husking grounds.—Nevadan.

The Turkey Shoot.

Jim Wiggins as usual, handled the Thanksgiving turkey shoot in Empire up to a top notch standard. As long as the marksmen were willing to try their sights Jim stuck up the birds and watched them die. There was no wrangling about the shots and the participants say that the decisions on wounded birds, were fair and impartial to all comers alike.

The dance in the evening was the feature of the occasion and the hall was packed with masquers. After the unmasking more couples piled in and the shuffling feet were active up to the next morning. Mr. Fred Noblock handled the floor like a French dancing master, gliding in and out of the maize of trippers and placing the couples in readiness for the "salute partners," etc. Al Lindsay and his wife furnished some excellent music and all went merrily on till the day broke.

Acquitted.

THE FOX SUIT.

It Still Draws Interested Crowds In San Francisco.

On Wednesday last John Mackay and Sam Jones were in Judge Hebbards' court as spectators in the Fox suit against the Norcross.

Attorney Baggett, for the plaintiff, offered in evidence a certified copy of the record of the United States Branch Mint at Carson, Nev., showing the deposit of bullion from January 1, 1887, to June 30, 1890. Council for the defendants strenuously opposed the introduction of the record, but, on behalf of the plaintiff, it was contended that the record was absolutely necessary to prove collusion and to trace the conspiracy charged in the complaint. Judge Hebbard ruled that the record, if probably certified, was admissible.

The main object of the plaintiff in trying to get in the Carson Mint record was to lay the foundation for showing subsequently that between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 was deposited in the mint in the name of Peters and Brown, clerks of the Bullion & Exchange Bank, which bullion was marked in the mint records as "unknown bullion," and that the entries did not show from what mine mill or sources the bullion or amalgam came.

Senator Williams testified in relation to his financial standing that he owned stock in the Banning Land and Water Company, which has 2,000 acres of land and water right located seventy miles east of Los Angeles, in San Diego county, he held 750 out of the 3,000 shares, the cost of which he could not recollect, but which now were worth $40 a share. He had sixty shares or three-fifths interest in the Bullion and Exchange Bank of Carson, worth $1,000 a share or $60,000; a one-sixth interest in a dredging company of 100,000 shares the value of which he did not know; 15,000 shares out of 100,000 in a creamery corporation worth $1 a share; a one-third interest in the Washoe Mill and Mining Company, which runs a ten-stamp mill at Gold Hill, of unknown value; 1,000 shares of the Newton Mining Company of Cerro Gordo, Inyo county, a recent incorporation, the value of which was prospective; a contingent interest in the Stoddard copper mine of Idaho, value unknown; a quarter interest in a ranch of 340 acres near Colfax, value unknown; and 500 acres of the Water, Land and Light Company of Reno, which furnishes electric light and water to that town, worth $5 or $6 a share.

In addition to this property the witness said he was the owner of an eighth interest in the Nevada Mill and Mining Company; the plant of which Alvinza Hayward testified on Monday cost over $300,000.

"Will you state," asked Mr. Baggett, "what you are worth?"

"As I can't fix the market price of my property I cannot state its value, but if it is worth $500,000 as you have intimated, I would like you to sell it for that amount and I will divide the proceeds with you," was Mr. Williams' reply.

The Court ordered both question and answer stricken out and counsel for the plaintiff devoted the remainder of the afternoon to trying to ascertain from the witness the value of the mill property.

The witness frankly stated that it was impossible to determine what the value of the property was. It depended largely upon the amount of ore worked. Since the mill had renewed operations in 1887 down to about the present time about 100,000 tons had been milled, for which $7 a ton was charged.

As Mr. Williams had business in Virginia City and cannot return before next Monday afternoon, his further examination was continued until that time.

The Blaine Movement.

The Washington Post, speaking of the Blaine sentiment put forward prominently by some members of the National Republicans Committee on Monday, says that there is no doubt that the friends of Mr. Blaine, who have called upon him while in this city, have left him with the impression that he is still in the field. They say if this is not the case Mr. Blaine owes it to his friends to let them know their mistake in assuming this position.

There seemed to be a belief yesterday that it would not be many weeks before such an announcement appeared, and prominent politicians undertook to predict that Mr. Blaine while urging the party to recognize the excellent work of the President by renomination, would add that if this is now the wish of the party he would accept the nomination if it came to him as the unanimous expression of all the delegates.

A rumor has been current for some time that Mr. Blaine would resign from the Cabinet in January and seek to completely regain his health by a Winter spent in the West Indies leaving his cause in the hands of his friends. There seems to be no doubt that those who called upon the Secretary felt impressed with the belief that he is healthy and fully equal to the task of enduring a campaign.

The Mania Spreading.

Hawthorne has an amateur minstrel company, composed in most part of boys attending the public school. They have been rehearsing for the past week and are equipped with bones, tambos, fresh gags and other paraphernalia requisite. If the reports of those who have witnessed the rehearsals are correct, we have some Billy Emersons, Charley Reeds and Backus in embryo in Hawthorne. The boys will give a public show early next month.—Hawthorne Bulletin.

Odd Fellows' Reunion.

There is no Secret

About your buying shoes to advantage. You may not know any more about the quality of leather than you do about a lost comet but that is no reason why you should get "stuck." Either you get your money's worth or you don't and if you don't is your own fault. We are in the shoe business because we happen to know something about shoes and leather. It is "bread and butter" to us, therefore we make it a STUDY. Of the knowledge you get as much benefit as though you possessed it yourself for we place it entirely in your disposal and if you think that other houses can quote lower prices than we do, come and look at the goods and and prices. We will put our time against yours and we feel confident that the result will be a mutual benefit.
